Questions, Answers

Q. I am planning to put some additional closets in my house. What size should they be?

A. The size and shape of a closet should be suitable to its purpose. Two feet is a satisfactory depth for clothes closets, as a greater depth usually results in waste space. However, the door should be wide enough to allow easy access to each end.

Q. Is it necessary to have gut-ters and downspouts on a house? A. Although they are desirable, gutters and downspouts are not a necessity, as a ditch filled with gravel or broken stone for a depth gravel or broken stone for a depth of about 8 inches may be provided under the eaves to catch the dripping from the roof and to prevent splashing of mud against the lower part of walls or the formation of puddles. The grade should be sloped to drain water away from the foundations, and where there is a pitched roof above a door there should be a motal strip on the roof near the eaves turned up so as to deflect water to the sides of the door.

Fit House Plan

Research Group to Test Correct Selection Called Just as Important as Decision on Roof

There are many types of doorways, porticos, and entries, but just any one will not fit the individual house. The fidelity of the urchitectural design is dependent upon the selection of the correct doorway just as much as it is on the correct type of roof.

Prevailing American nome architecture is cittler an adaptation of Colonial or some one of the leading types of Colonial architecture. If the home is New England Colonial, Dutch Colonial, or Southern Colonial, there is a Colonial, Dutch Colonial, or Southern Colonial, there is a doorway that fits perfectly with the design, and any other employed will detract from the approximate of the house of the house.

POTATOES

The Department of Agriculture discloses that over the past five years it has cost the government more than $170,000,000 to support the price of potatoes.

Usually thought of as one of the more prosaic foods, the potato lately has received unaccustomed public attention, mostly since 1946 when the government bought more than a hundred million bushels to keep the open market price from sagging. The government had much difficulty disposing of the potatoes it had bought, and large quantities were destroyed, just to be rid of them.

It is hard for the individual citizen to convince himself that his $170,000,000 has not been wasted along with the potatoes the money was used to buy. The potato is basic to his diet. He knows that both his taxes and the price of potatoes are higher than they used to be. The taxes are higher partly because tax money is used to buy potatoes, and the potato price is higher partly for the

The potato is only one of many foods sold at government-supported prices, but it has attracted the public eye. The matter of potatoes may therefore be prominent in forcing Congress soon to re-examine the whole basic question of price supports, which are an effort to shield farming from the risks of loss inherent in the capitalistic system, without depriving it of any of the possible profits of the system.

Luis Taruc, Philippine guerilla leader, has made peace with the government and will star in a movie based on his career, for which he also will write the script, Sounds like one way to take care of difficult char-

HUNGER IN GERMANY

Recent developments have led to the conclusion that food problems in the Russian zone of Germany are more acute than elsewhere. There have been reports of hunger demonstrations, and Soviet announcements of severe measures against hoarders and black market sellers. Almost nowhere in central Europe is food plentiful, but in the other zones of Germany the occupying powers have been able generally to keep food supplies at a level sufficient to prevent mass

There are further small indications which make it easy to believe that the Russians have deliberately created a shortage of food in their zone. Germans in that zone are told that if they want more to eat they must produce more,

The use of hunger as a club in the exploitation of labor usually results in an accumulation of emaciated workers who no longer have the strength to replace the ill and starved, or the stamina and productivity of the whole area decline.

If Russia is deliberately creating hunger in its zone of Germany, what is the aim? Is is to reduce the German population to irreparable weakness, or to make way for more faithful Communists to move in? Or is it just short-sighted?

NEW PRIME MINISTER

A lawyer of long private practice, pressed Into political service during the war, is to be Canada's new prime minister. The public life of Louis Stephen St. Laurent, new leader of the National Liberal party, began in 1941.

He entered politics then only at the urgent request of the now retiring prime minister, William Lyon Mackenzie King, who wanted his help in the trying war period. In that short time he achieved such standing in his party that almost from the mament Mr. King announced his intention to retire there was small doubt among the politically wise of Canada as to who would be the successor.

Few will envy him the task he takes up. Being a French Canadian, he is well able to understand and perhaps to cope with the growing problem of touchy relations between Canadians of French and English tongue. His country, like its southern neighbor, faces uncertain economic prospects. His government has undertaken to accept, as a new in general elections. It would not be an atprovince the colony of Newfoundland, which I tractive outlook for a man of faint heart.

DOUGLAS OBITER DICTA

Justice William O. Douglas's opinions have been thrown together by the editors of "The Progressive" into an article entitled "The Conflict of Our Time." They say that they did it to "illustrate his thinking on some of the basic issues of

It is a curious article, particularly in that part n which Mr. Justice Douglas speaks authoritatively of China. He says:

"The Nationalist Government in China has lost ming-shing-the heart of the people. It is tainted by corrupt and reactionary elements. Its secret police patrol the universities and schools to discover dangerous influences—those who protest the serfdom in which the peoples are held and who press for liberal reforms."

Of course, Mr. Justice Douglas does not know the protection of the course of the

Of course, Mr. Justice Douglas does not know this of his own knowledge or experience. He gets such internation from the prependerance of evidence from those whom he is willing to accept as authorities. He ignores the fact, for example, that the Nationalist Government came into existence in the year 1927, which is only 21 years ago. When that government was established at Nanking, China was diveded into numerous feutial states, some of them large, some very tiny, all feuding against each other, fighting for power, for revenue, for control. The people had never in their thousands of years of history known representative government or what Mr. Justice Douglas carelessly calls Democracy.

At the same time that the Nationalist Govern-At the same time that the Nationalist Government was attempting to create a modern state out of deep-rooted feudal habits, the foreign powers were creating disturbances by direct interference in China's affairs. China had to regain control of the Customs from the British; to negotiate a treafy providing authority over her own turiff and currency. In fact, the Communist movement in China was able to operate out of Shanghai, which was under international control, and Hongkong, under British control.

under international control, and Hongkong, under British control.

Out of the 21 years of the existence of the National Government, she was at war with Japan 14 years, on and off. There were years when Japan occupied most of the country that was arable and industrial. Chiang Kai-shek moved his capital to Chungking and literally stood with his back to the Tiberan Mountains. Flow much could he or any man do for the reconstruction of his country between 1927 and 1945, or since?

But all this was complicated by an American silver policy which threw China into a wild inflation, the printing presses pouring out billions of banknotes to deplete China'ss wealth and corrupt her people. Those hanknotes were printed in the.

of binkindes to deplete China's wenth and corrupt.

her people. Those banknotes were printed in the United States by American printers. They were flown to China in American planes. They were dumped into that country, having been given the highest priority, being flown over the Hump in preference to food, oil or war supplies.

Mr. Justice Douglas, from his high perch, says nothing about that. He says:

"The Communists in China have cleverly capitalized on this program of inaction and op-pression of the Nationalist Government. They flave addressed thenselves to the needs of the common men in China. The Nationalists have not. The men in China. The Nationalists have not. The Communists have a comprehensive social program for China, the Nationalists do not."

Naturally, the Communists can advocate any kind of wonderful program because they have no responsibilities. They received from the Russians the arms of the Japanese Kuantung Army, the best in Japan, which they use to continue a devastating civil war, whereas General Chiang was practically disarrated by General Marshall, who wanted Chiang to combine with the Chinese Communists. Had Chinas Kai-shek joined Soviet Russia when General Marshall was trying to force him to when General Marshall was trying to force him to do precisely that, the 450,000,000 people of China would today be Soviet robots, being made ready to kill Americans.

I can go through this amazing article of Mr. I can go through this amazing article of Mr. Justice Douglas, paragraph by paragraph, to show how superficially he approaches great problems. Or maybe the editors of "The Progressive" threw this stuff together without the learned Justice's consent. But anyone who says: ". The basic rivalry between the United States and Russia today is political . . ." does not understand the depth of the differences between Marxism and Western Civilization. Those differences are inherent in the philosophies that guide the two worlds. Mr. Justice Douglas might start with Plato and come up to date.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

"More persons are concerned about the actual height of their blood pressure than with the potential dangers of the atomic bomb." I am quoting from a book for laymen by Dr. John Streinerohn entitled "What You Can Do About High Blood

When we realize that sudden deaths in middleof a blood vessel in the heart or brain, it is only natural for so many, to be worried about blood pressure. What most of us fail to remember, however, is that blood pressure is necessary to life, and there are times when high blood pressure actually will us through an illness when low blood pressure. pulls us through an iliness when low blood pressure would have failed to do so. Low pressure may pro-long life and prevent brain strokes (apoplexy) and heart strokes (coronary thrombosis), but the indi-vidual with low pressure usually is lacking in pep

Another point mentioned with which all physicians will agree, is that men and women are too "blood pressure conscious" and want the blood pressure taken every time they visit their physician. If pressure is high they are discouraged; if normal, they are encouraged. What they fall to recognize is that an emotional upset, a heavy ment or alcohol can send up the blood pressure temporarily.

"It is unfortunate that so many persons with blood pressure above the normal for their age be-lieve that they must have their pressure read at frequent intervals."

If all physicians would stop telling patients how high their blood pressure is, and if all patients would stop asking, their blood pressure would have its true reintionship in estimating the actual health of the patient.

There are some points about high blood pressure that should be remembered. First, blood pressure is affected by emotional disturbances, such as losing the temper, cating and drinking too much, not get-ting enough rest and reluxation, keeping the mind and body tensed. Over-exertion, when tired or immediately after eating, is dangerous to one with high blood pressure.

Living on a lower level mentally and physically will prolong life, even where blood pressure is high due to hardening of the arteries.

True Story Being Broadcast to Soviet

New York, Aug. 14 (AP)—The voice of America is telling the people of the world the full story of Mrs. Oksana Stepanova Kosenkina's leap from the Soviet consulate where she says she was held captive. "This is what we have been waiting for in our war of words,' court, he added, the worst cases a State Department spokesman ensily understood by people all over the world."

First accounts of the incident were beamed to countries overless than an hour after the Russian school teacher made her three-story jump. More complete stories, broad-cast in 22 languages, were in-chided in later short-waved reports.

The spokesman said the "Voice" had used seven channels on a program to Vladivostok and eight on the Moscow program. Officials believed the broadcasts got believed the broadcasts got through despite evidence that the Russians have sought to lam some programs in recent months.

"There must be some embarassed people in the Kremlin," the spokesman said. "Mrs. Kosinkina's statement that she jumped from the window to get 3:50 p. m. West Shore train for away from the Russians seems to refute the claim that we are holding her in this country against taken to the James M. Murphy her will."

The Mirror said most of those leaving "are top-ranking engineers, technicians and professional men and women, many of whom have been in this country for years."

It added that women and children of these "key figures" were going back too.

You can get even money on Billy Van Aken as a repeater for the Wiltwyck Club Class. A crown. It must be presumed.... Tom Danaher's swingers, with 48 players entered in the pitching jub from Artie Harnes to three championship flights, maintain an excellent competitive spirif. score a 4-0 victory. Nothing over-whelming, you know, but solid No. 7 and third place in the standings a length behind the pace setting Jones Dairy. The loss was West Shore's 10th in 11 games.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

In addition Artie poked the second homer of the season at the 300-foot mark on the left field foul line. Bill Tierney, a teammate, had previously accomplished the trick.

Harry Secreto pitched a neat four-hitter for himself but the old West Shore habit of fumbilities tropped up in the first inning and three errors gave Morgan's two runs for just the asking. The

• Patkin and Price . . . Two Workers

FORMULA: The essential features of pitching averages, Branch Rickey says, are innings pitched, hits allowed, strikeouts and bases on balls. When the first two are 50-50, you have a fair pitcher. As long as the figure for strikeouts exceeds that of walks, you have a better-than-average pitcher. When the proportion is 2 to 1 in favor of strikeouts, then you have a potentially great pitcher.

Chicago, Aug. 14 (A)-Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago now shades Ben professional golf's lists of 1948 money-winners.

Mangrum with carnings of $25,944 and Hogan with $25,297 have been the only two financial-pace-setters along the game's play-for-pay troupe this year.

Hogan still paces the Vardon trophy race with an average of 69.69 strokes per round in recognized events. Little Ben also had a big markin in Ryder Cup points with 640.

More Real Estate Firms Expected to Help Shortage

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14 (49)-New York's secretary of state said today the large numbers of new real estate corporations being organized "should eventually relieve the housing shortage." Thomas J. Curran, in a report on new firms seeking state char-ters during July, noted that 394 real estate firms were authorized to begin business during the month. Mark total of 1,705 stock corpora-tions were approved in July, bringing this year's seven-month total to 14,451. This compares to 15,964 for the corresponding 1947 regular.

Capitalization of firms in July amounted to $17,577,922, not considering 1,228 corporations authorized to issue stock at no par

The metropolitan area attracted 1,362 new companies, while 46 upstate counties accounted for 343.

Freak Hand Always

Difficult to Handle BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

America's Card Authority Written for NEA Service Today's hand was played by Mrs. John S. Hermistone of Char- have returned home after spendlcroi. Pa. She held the West cards ing a week with Mrs. John Cushand the bidding shown is exactly ner with two diamonds rather than believe that since South had bid a spade and she held five of them, there was no need for her to try to shut out further bidding on the part of South. Also, she was void in hearts and chibs, and if the opponents bid either of those suits. Mrs. Hermistone's partner probably would be well fortified against them.

However, she bid four diamonds,

le Redouble Pase

Opening—♥ A when North bid four hearts. East could not be blamed for doubling. Now South bid four doubling. Now South bid four spades, which I do not think Mrs. Hermistone should have doubled. It was obvious that the whole hand was of freakish pattern, and she had no certainty that she could defeat four spades. If she had not doubled, the opponents undoubt-edly would have played the contract at four spanes. After her double and North's redouble. East was confronted with a very difficult problem, with eight hearts and five clubs. I am quite sure that half of the experts might take it out in five diamonds, as this East player did. Now, when South doubled five diamonds. Mrs. Hermistone cer-tainly should not have redoubled. Had she not done so, she and her partner would have lost no more than they would if the opponents had made the redoubled spade

It was a disastrous hand for East and West, as the opponents cashed five spade tricks and two diamond tricks.

Freak hands are difficult to handle as well as to analyze. In such cases one can only ask, "What did you do with it?." rather than "What was the right thing to do?"
